

Katharsis Development is created by a unique team whose main goal is to introduce a new standard of quality in the commercial real estate industry. We plan, implement and popularize investments in the segment of convenience centers with the long-term strategy to continue to add to our already valuable portfolio of projects under the common name HopStop.

HopStop consists of complex commercial buildings, harmoniously integrated into the public space. With locations in Zamość, Radom, Olsztyn, Ostrów Wielkopolski, Siedlce and other Polish cities, HopStop dedicates itself to perfecting the dynamics of each one of their investments.

Constantly adjusting our business tactics to the needs and buying habits of local communities, we put a large focus on the quality of our architectural solutions. With simple but thought-through shopping centers we launch facilities where we would like to do our daily purchases ourselves. They come with an aesthetic design that enables efficient implementation of consumer needs such as organic integration with modern bus stations. We distinguish ourselves with our ability to accurately analyze and comprehensively plan and implement attractive real estate projects.

Our team is led by Rafał Trusiewicz - founder and CEO of Katharsis Development. A legal advisor with many years of experience in real estate commercialization. Rafał is a graduate of the Law Faculty at the University of Warsaw. He also graduated in English law and EU law at the University of Warsaw in cooperation with the University of Cambridge, the University of Florida for American Law and has a degree from the World Law Institute at Cornell University. Rafał received scholarships from the University of Central Europe in Budapest as well as the University of Central Europe at the University of Oxford where he received LLM diploma.

In the 9th annual CEE Retail Awards we were nominated in following categories:
